FROM THE RABBI

As our year 5775 comes to a close and we approach Rosh Hashanah 5776 here at Ohavi Zedek Synagogue, we have so much for which to be grateful. This summer, Ben Zion Black's magnificent mural was tenderly moved from what used to be Chai

Adam Synagogue on Hyde Street to the entrance of Ohavi Zedek Synagogue. So much love was invested in the move that a single nail, lightly attached to an outer board, stayed in place throughout the journey. It was nothing less than thrilling to see the top of the building on Hyde Street lifted up, the carefully packaged mural taken out by great giraffe-looking crane, the top of what once was Chai Adam Synagogue then put back perfectly in place, and then the mural ever so slowly brought to our building and placed in the entrance way, then over the weeks lifted into place. The mural, still in need of much painstaking conservation, was opened for the public to see in August. Below I include the blessing I offered on that day:

We have much for which to be thankful. At a time when we are going through a great transition in leadership, a new Senior Rabbi and a new Director, our very diverse membership is working together to move forward with kindness and strength. For sure, there are differences of opinion, yet we endeavor to hold to the rabbinic standard which I have taught over the years and Vivien Rabin Brown spoke about last Kol Nidre, elu v'elu divrei Elohim chayim, "these and these are the words of the living God." We can disagree, both be right, and together discern the will of God.

Thank God for the leadership of our president Jeff Potash. Thank God for all that Peter Pelaia has done in a few short years to organize our administration, not to mention to give much time to support the mural project. Thank God for the miracle of Vivien Rabin Brown's remarkable recovery from her fall, and now her stepping up to be Interim Director. Thank God for Lee Lichtenstein and members of the Rabbinic Search Committee's careful judgment and persistence in their search for our next Senior Rabbi. Thank God for a Board of Directors and our two Trustees, whose collective wisdom keeps us moving forward as steadily and carefully as the mural was moved.

The blessing of The Lost Shul Mural in August was intended for that particular day, yet in many ways it speaks of blessing and gratitude, not just for one day, but also for every day as we move forward into the new year. The bringing of the mural from what once was Chai Adam, the city's second synagogue, to Ohavi Zedek Synagogue, Burlington's first synagogue, represents a step in a never ending process of integration of our Jewish community. May 5776 be a year in which we continue that integration, within our own congregation, with Jews in other congregations and unaffiliated Jews in our area, as well as with all of our increasingly diverse neighbors.

~ Rabbi Joshua Chasan

FROM THE ASSISTANT RABBI

I am often in a situation of pastoral counsel with congregants, where we are exploring the spiritual facet of their lives, and this emphatic declaration usually arises about five minutes into our session: I DON'T BELIEVE IN G!D. (Yes, that is an exclamation point between the G and the D...yet another way to write the Name which can't be written.)

My teacher, Reb Zalman Schachter-Shalomi, z"l, taught: "tell me about the G!D that you don't believe in, because I probably don't believe in that face of G!D either! Now we can really get to work!" This teaching is a deep one. We are hobbled, in English, by a name for G!D that is a noun, and which carries with it a whole lotta baggage: the man on the throne in the sky; the angry god who smites down all who abandon him; a distant god who seems to be rather ineffective in halting the pain and suffering of his 'chosen people'; and so on.

What if we ask a different question altogether? If you join me in imagining that G!D is the connective tissue which binds all of creation, we might ask: how do you experience beauty? How do you experience a connection with others and with the natural world? What if we think of G!D as a verb? By some counts, there are over 120 different names of G!D in our Torah, all bound up in verbs, never a noun: "the one who shields Moses," "I am who I am/I am becoming who I am becoming," and so on.

So now we can expand our understanding of what is G!D by asking: How is G!D "goddling" us in the moment? How do we 'god' each other? In what situations do I feel connected? Or in awe? With questions like these, we can override the circuits which keep us from experiencing the Holy Face in every facet of our lives, and begin to shift out of the world of nouns and into the world of verbs. In this new month of Elul, the rabbis tell us that G!D is walking in the field, present and available and welcoming us for a stroll and a chat, so that we can enter the Holy Days with a sense of intimacy and comfort with G!D, and not a sense of being judged by something which is distant. May you have a lovely walk with the way that you 'god' in your world this month: the Holy days invite us to be always on the road to improvement and deepening our connection with the awe and potentiality that is always within reach.

~ Rabbi Jan

RABBINIC SUCCESSION

As you know, we just recently completed a Shabbaton with Rabbi Amy Joy Small. As this issue of The Voice goes to print, we are collecting survey data which will be reviewed by the board and the Search Committee. We will share new information as soon as possible.

The Search Committee is made up of a diverse group of people, in age and in point of view. The group includes Joey Bergstein, Basha Brody, Judy Danzig, Marv Greenberg, Jim Grossman, Paul Growald, Judy Hershberg, Mike Kanarick, Harvey Klein, Deb Lashman, Deb Lichtenfeld, Joanna May, Jeff Potash, Vivien Rabin Brown, Wendy Stein and myself.

We have been working diligently to identify the candidates who would be a good match for Ohavi Zedek. We reviewed over 20 applications, interviewed six via videoconference and invited four to visit OZ for interviews with the committee and board. To date, only two of those candidates, Rabbi Jonah Geffen and Rabbi Amy Joy Small, have advanced to a Shabbaton weekend.

Finally, heartfelt thanks to Kathy and Raul Guevara, Rose Pels, Jeff Potash, and the many other folks who were part of the kitchen crew. I am aware of how much time, work, energy and cost go into organizing and running a Shabbaton, and am so appreciative of you all.

We will be back in touch shortly.

~ Lee Lichtenstein
Chair, Rabbinic Search Committee

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Much as the New Year welcomes us to remember joyful traditions, family gatherings and wondrous feasts, it also offers us an opportunity to be more welcoming toward one another. Where and how might we at OZ foster meaningful relationships that underlie authentic community?

I pose this as a question with the intent to challenge us to find new ways in the coming year to bring us closer. To be sure, we enjoy a rich inheritance, as members of Burlington's oldest Jewish congregation. The tangible benefits – our debt-free building, our significant landholdings “on the hill,” our healthy endowments – all testify to the deep commitment of past OZers, “Lovers of Justice,” to translate long-held traditions and values into the substance of real Jewish community. Now it is our turn to consider our legacy. How do we ensure that OZ enjoys a bright future? What can we do to foster meaningful community, build positive relationships, and sustain the cycle of righteous reciprocity, where the mitzvah of asking allows others the mitzvah of doing?

Obviously, there's no one right answer. A caring mentor once taught me to appreciate the idea of “successive approximation.” The foundation of his success, he explained, derived from his willingness to approach change as experimentation. It's rare that one achieves anything that's challenging the first time —be prepared to make mistakes. The key rests in the cycle of reflecting and learning, making corrections, then repeating the process on a regular basis.

Let me share where we'll be undertaking experiments in the spirit of “successive approximation.” To start, I want to make sure that everyone who comes to High Holiday services is welcomed at the door by an OZ officer or member of the Board of Trustees. We are all equals and all equally welcome. We want newcomers, be they visitors or friends or relatives of OZers, to feel comfortable among us, in our building and with our services. Board members will let them know that ushers welcome the opportunity to assist them with any questions or problems.

We will undertake even more substantive experiments throughout the year to foster the spirit of welcoming. I encourage you to read Naomi Barell's column to learn about a number of exciting new outreach (as well as in-reach) opportunities for youth and young families. In that spirit, Rabbi Jan and I will reach out to Chavurah families, listen carefully to understand their needs and desires, and learn how we at OZ can help encourage and support their efforts to grow their Jewish identity.

Here at OZ, our Adult Education program is perhaps our strongest and most diverse ever, with opportunities for OZers to meet others with similar interests. Participants can learn about Judaism (and other topics) and learn how to participate in and even lead our services. We will provide opportunities for lay members of the congregation to deliver the D'Var Torah on Shabbos, and lead minyan on weekdays.

Welcoming takes many forms. Our “new” mural has already drawn visitors from across the country. We will work to develop materials and organize volunteers to ensure that its voice welcomes all visitors, for now and for generations to come.

OZ is a special place. Our Shalom Shuk continues to welcome all who are in need. It continues to share its good fortune by contributing a portion of its proceeds to worthy area organization in support of youth programming. It is a wonderful model of reciprocity, providing a mitzvah both for those who give and for those who receive.

As I write this, we are about to undergo a year filled with change. As we come together to welcome a new Rabbi and new Administrative Director. Let us also strive to build new and relevant ways to be a welcoming community, grounded both in tradition and change. Much like the values of caring and community that characterized our ancestors' “Little Jerusalem,” let's find ways to build an exemplary 21st century Jewish community, where the values of welcoming, respecting, and cherishing one another are celebrated by all.

~ Jeff Potash

FROM THE INTERIM DIRECTOR

As you know, Peter Pelaia is leaving Ohavi Zedek. His last day will be September 11.

Among so many others, I am very sad to see him go. Peter has done amazing work in the last five years: he has increased membership, developed our Chavurah and outreach, and put into place new procedures that have greatly improved our operation. He also is one of the people responsible for helping to get the mural here. I don't know where we'd be now without his warmth, brilliance and efficiency.

I won't have to miss Peter personally, because my husband and I have become very close to him and his wife, Ariela and son, Asher. But I will certainly miss him here at OZ.

The board is currently working on an updated job description for his replacement. We should start advertising in early September. Until we have a regular replacement, I have agreed to work as Interim Director. Ohavi Zedek means so much to me, and I am happy to do whatever I can to keep things running as smoothly as possible. I will be working part-time (25 hours per week), beginning on September 1. I will share more information about my role after I begin. In the meantime, Peter is filling me in on everything he works on (a lot!) and training me.

My second term on the board was coming to an end in November. I have left the board, effective August 31, so that I can be on the staff temporarily.

There's a lot that we're working on, including recruitment of a new rabbi (see Lee Lichtenstein's article on page 4), continuing mural work, and recruitment of the new director.

I want to thank our wonderful community for all the love and support I received after my accident. I truly believe that you all had a lot to do with my complete recovery. I send my love and devotion to everyone—I am here for you, as you've been here for me.

~ Vivien Rabin Brown

BOARD NOMINATIONS

While changes are underway among some of our clergy and staff, Ohavi Zedek Synagogue remains a vibrant, vital and thriving Jewish community. Our strength lies in our members as well as in the clergy and staff who serve us.

We are fortunate to have a dedicated Board of Directors whose members freely and respectfully articulate positions based on principle, while managing differences and dealing with occasional conflicts that arise. (Board members are listed on page 2 of The Voice.)

On Sunday, November 22, at our semi-annual Congregational Meeting, elections will take place to fill six vacancies, five who are leaving the board—Joey Bergstein, Vivien Rabin Brown, David Borsykowski, Mitchel Cypes and Peggy Munro—and one who is standing for re-election, Sharon Panitch.

I have been asked by Jeff Potash to chair the 2015 Nominating Committee. We are currently inviting names of prospective nominees and interested members may contact me or Basha Brody, Secretary of the board. After the interview process, which will begin in September and conclude in early October, names will be forwarded to the board. A slate of candidates will then be presented to the congregation. A candidate may also be nominated directly from the floor at the meeting.

Board members should expect to attend one meeting a month and special meetings if called by the president, to actively serve on one of the synagogue committees, and to participate in special projects and the Annual Appeal.

Members of the board must be committed to bringing skill and vision to their participation. We want board members to be enthusiastic and thoughtful about navigating the change process that we as a congregation are undergoing, while providing stability during this exciting time of transition.

For those interested in going through the nominating process, or for questions or more information, please contact me at mpschaal@comcast.net or call (802) 922-0558. If I don't answer, leave a message and I will call you back. I know that many of you are thinking about how busy you are. I am busy as well. I want to

PROFILE: JOANNA MAY

It takes a while and a bit of trial-and-error for some people to find themselves. Joanna May was one of those people: she traveled a winding road over several years before discovering her true home in Vermont and her true calling as a music teacher.

Joanna was born in New York City in 1969, the elder of two siblings. Her brother, just one year younger, lives in Copenhagen with his Danish wife and their 18-month-old child. On her father's side, her grandfather emigrated from Germany in the 1920s and settled in Mobile, Alabama. Although he tried to get other family members to America when World War II loomed, they were reluctant to leave their European homes and relatives, and subsequently perished in the Holocaust. For decades it was believed that everyone had been lost; however, the resurfacing twenty-five years ago of multiple copies of a German-made family tree that traced the family back to the 1600s revealed several branches with a number of survivors living in different parts of the world.

In Mobile her grandfather joined an uncle in operating the family pants factory and found community in the Reform synagogue. Joanna's father also went into the business, taking it over at the age of 19 when his father died. He sold it five years later and relocated to New York City, where he met Joanna's mother, a young woman of Russian/Hungarian parentage who had grown up in Newark, NJ.

In 1971, when Joanna was two, her family moved from New York to Madison, NJ. In their Reform temple there her mother served as principal of the Hebrew School. But both she and Joanna sensed that something was lacking. "My Jewish identity came from the family table and from Jewish summer camp, rather than from the temple," Joanna says. As for her mother, a temple-sponsored trip to Israel prompted her to go back to school and immerse herself further in Hebrew and in-depth Jewish study. "I learned through her," Joanna says.

She attended public school until fifth grade, then went to an all-girls school in nearby Summit, NJ. She blossomed there in its arts and humanities programs, where she began to sing and to write. Among the highlights of her early education were joining an a capella group that recorded for a children's record company and going on an arts trip to Israel, where she attended workshops and met with artists.

Her love for music and theater led her to enroll in Indiana University, known for its excellent music department. As a Voice major, she also studied literature and theater arts, discovering along the way that although she loved the training, she did not enjoy performing. After graduating in 1991 she headed back to New York – not to pursue a career in music, but to open her own business, a recycled envelope company.

Ever mindful of environmental issues, Joanna created the company to repurpose large calendars that are discarded as every year draws to a close. Her envelope business lasted just one year, after which she packed up her remaining stock and headed West with a boyfriend to volunteer on a Navaho reservation in Arizona. "I needed a more natural environment," she came to realize as she left the big city. Also, she was beginning to ask herself: what is my purpose? where do I belong? "My parents were asking the same questions," Joanna notes, "but they were always supportive."

After six months she and her boyfriend parted ways and Joanna decided to try her hand at teaching. She discovered an experiential education boarding school in North Carolina, where middle school students helped construct the buildings, grow their own food, etc. She was there for two years, after which she sold the remainder of her envelopes to the school and headed back to school herself to earn a teaching degree.

With another boyfriend who was into maple sugaring she landed in Vermont, and immediately sensed that this is where she belongs. "I loved the Midwest," she says, "but it never felt like home." Enrolling in the Middle Level Education program at St. Michael's, she earned her teaching degree in 1997, and taught at Hunt Middle School in Burlington for five years.

Her roommate introduced Joanna to Dan Weinstein in 1997. Dan, from Rochester, had gone to summer camp in upstate Chateaugay, NY and had come across the lake to visit Burlington several times. As an adult he held a series of jobs, in Washington DC for a Congresswoman and also in Vermont, before enrolling in the UVM College of Medicine. He was entering his first year when he met Joanna, and they were married the following year. Dan was also able to complete his residency here. Ten years ago they moved from Burlington to Richmond.

Dan is a family practitioner who serves as Medical Director of UVM Medical Center Urgent Care in Colchester. When their son Ben was born in 2002 Joanna stopped teaching and worked as a proofreader and editor at Seven Days. Adam came along two years later. Over the ensuing years Joanna earned her Master's of Education at St. Mike's, focusing on integrating the arts into education. She kept her music going by singing with local bands.

Still uncomfortable as a performer, however, Joanna trained to teach music, and four years ago started her own business, Music Together with Joanna May, a family music and movement program. She teaches at the Saxon Hill School, HeartWorks Preschool and the Lund Family Center, as well as in Richmond and Huntington libraries. She also derives great joy in singing with the VNA's hospice chorus Noyana at the Respite House, in nursing homes and on home visits. Four years ago she became co-director of the chorus.

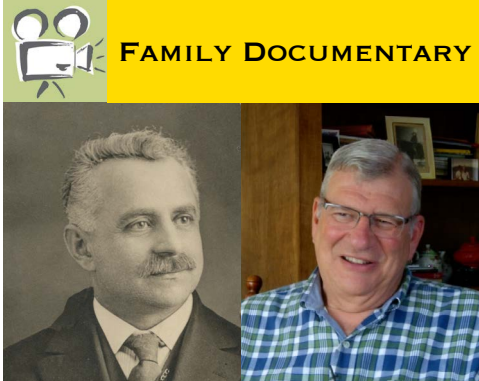

"I finally feel that I'm doing what I'm supposed to be doing," she says with a sigh. Ben and Adam are now 12 and 10, and will be middle schoolers at Camel's Hump this year. They ski and play other sports, play instruments, and participate in Odyssey of the Mind, a program that challenges teams of students to come up with creative solutions to problems. In 2013 the boys traveled with their parents, grandparents and Joanna's brother and sister-in-law to Israel.

"In looking for community," Joanna notes, "I'd been hovering around Ohavi Zedek for years, pulled in by some things, but pushed away by others." While neither she nor Dan are attracted by formal, traditional synagogue life, they'd found community and spiritual connection to the Judaism they fully embrace through chavurah. They and five other families formed an informal group to pass along their Jewish values and celebrate holidays together when their children were young.

As proponents of experiential learning, they sought an alternative model to the traditional Hebrew School when their boys approached Hebrew School age, one that focuses on family education and includes storytelling, questioning, music, social action, and nature. We're lucky enough to be living in Vermont, Joanna reasons, and we should appreciate our natural surroundings and incorporate them into our celebrations of holidays and Jewish learning. Ben will be at OZ this fall, enrolled in the new Hebrew School model that Principal Naomi Barell is exploring for the sixth and seventh grade classes, Machom L'Mishpacha: A Place for Family.

Recruited to join the Board of Directors at Ohavi Zedek two years ago, Joanna accepted "in an aspirational mode." In her desire to "not sit on the sidelines," she is enjoying the experience among thoughtful and respectful board members. She also serves as a member of the Rabbinic Search Committee. Through her mom she has had contact with great rabbis, teachers, and programming. "I want that here," she says passionately. "I see potential for meaningful and exciting things to happen at OZ."

HEBREW SCHOOL NEWS

It's that time of year again, an opportunity for us to wipe the slate clean and start fresh. At Yom Kippur we do 'teshuvah'. Loosely translated it means 'repentance'. But what it really means is to 'go back' or 'review'. In order to take a new and better path we must always look back and see where we may have gone astray.

This is what we do every year with the curriculum at OZHS. Come the end of May, it's time to see what worked and what didn't, what can be improved, find the holes, and look for ways to do better.

We have made some subtle shifts and some major additions to OZHS for this school year that, I think, will have a major impact on our learning. On Wednesdays, kids will have an opportunity to learn Hebrew language in a more homogeneous environment amongst others with similar ability. They will also learn about Jewish culture, history, traditions, customs and beliefs in a more holistic way through our SUPER Electives. First semester options include: 'Judaism and the Arts,' 'Judaism and Food,' 'Israel,' 'Judaism and the Environment,' and 'Shabbat Toolkit.' Sundays will be more class oriented where students will be together with kids their own age learning about prayer, Torah and preparing for all- school activities and holiday celebrations.

We will continue having our welcoming Desert Tent Jamboree in October. January's Mitzvah Day will focus on Judaism and the Disabled, and our Passover celebration will include our yearly tasting and introduce our Passover 'shuk' where kids can sell and purchase items from their diaspora community all while speaking in Hebrew! We will be bringing new tunes into Junior Congregation this year and Wednesday's music session will focus more on Friday evening prayers.

We are offering Shalom Explorers, a brand new preschool program for children ages 3-5. Parents and kids will meet with a facilitator once a month to sing songs, hear a story, do a craft, have snack and create community.

Makom l'Mishpacha is also starting this year at OZHS. It is a family based learning program for 6th and 7th graders. Kids and parents will have an opportunity to learn side-by-side and separately in a variety of settings – in the classroom, on a field trip, at a family holiday celebration and more. The first year focuses on Jewish identity through the study of family histories, world and Jewish history, and Israel. The second year focus will be on text study – Torah, Talmud and prayers in anticipation of preparing for bar and bat mitzvah.

I am truly looking forward to this coming school year. May 2015-2016 and 5776 be a healthy and a happy new year and one filled with great learning for everyone.

Shana Tova!

~ Naomi Barell

remind you that OZ is our community and we each have a stake in what happens here now, and what will happen in the future. Being a board member can be at times challenging. It is also immensely gratifying to be able to contribute in a way that makes a difference. Serving on the board is a mitzvah. Please step up.

SUKKOT FESTIVAL

Many Jews know Sukkot as the Harvest Festival, a celebratory time of abundance and community, a time of gathering and sharing of the harvest. In Vermont, this is the season when all of us localvores gorge on our state's abundance: apples and apple cider; kale, carrot and beet salads; pumpkin pie! Occurring during the first full moon of autumn, Sukkot urges us to enjoy Vermont's bounty.

Encouraged by last year's amazing weather and foliage, Ohavi Zedek's outreach program is partnering with Living Tree Alliance to offer up another memorable weekend with the Second Annual Sukkot on the Farm Festival on October 3 and 4 at the New Leaf Organic Farm at 4818 Bristol Road, Bristol.

Tentative Schedule for the weekend: <http://www.livingtreealliance.com/sukkot.html>

Saturday, October 3, 6:30 pm

Havdallah Program led by Rabbi Jan Salzman

Celebratory Dancing, Dessert and Bonfire to Follow

Light up the night and the Sukkah with discussions inspired by Ecclesiastes: "In a material world of impermanence, where can we best make our mark and be satisfied?" We will end our evening with a celebratory dance party in the barn. Bonfire, marshmallows, wine and local musicians provided! You bring a dessert to share, your dancing shoes, and $5 for the musicians.

Sunday October 4: Harvest Fair, Sukkot's Mystic Roots and Community Celebration

9:30 am, Arrival, Parking, Admire the Amazing Sukkah $15 suggested donation per family or $5 per person

Join with community for do-it-yourself homesteading and crafting activities, volunteering on the farm, and much more! The morning starts with workshops for everyone. After a communal potluck lunch, we'll have live blacksmithing, apple pressing, horse drawn hayrides, rope making, harvest crafts and games. We'll end the day with some "get down and boogie" music with nationally performing Klezmer music and puppets!

9:45 am: Community Circle: Bringing Down the Waters Ceremony for Shemini Atzeretz, led by Rabbis from the Stowe and Montpelier Communities

10:00 - 11:30 am, Morning Workshops for the Family Women's Wilderness Woods Hike, led by Kohenet Priestess in Training www.kohenet.org

The Kabbalah of Joy: led by Rabbi Tobie Weisman

Mindful Walking Workshops

Children's Activities in the Sukkah: Local lulav weaving, mural painting, storytelling, crafts, cordage, wildcrafting and treasure hunts, fairy harvest hut building

This year: Special Tikkun Olam area for Teens looking at issues of homelessness in Vermont

11:30 am - 12:30 pm: Harvest Potluck, pizza for sale and salads, lulav shakedown and nonprofit tabling on local issues

12:30 - 2:30: Homesteading Interactive Workshops

Puppet show by nationally touring Talking Hands Theatre Company from Massachusetts (tentative).

Horse and buggy rides, apple pressing, potato harvesting, live blacksmithing, wilderness survival skills, family treasure hunts

2:00 - 4:00 pm: Musical Klezmer Celebration and Community Closing Circle

This is a community celebration! There is camping on the beautiful property in Bristol, and we would love to have more hands on deck to decorate the property and create a smooth, flowing, inspiring experience for everyone. All volunteers are invited to stay for the weekend and build community, study, and celebrate Shabbat starting with a Sabbath dinner in Bristol on Friday night.

A rewarding adventure, wonderful people and a magical weekend await you. If you are interested in joining the inner circle please contact me by email or call: bikingmelanie@gmail.com, 802 385-1039.

LUNCH & LEARN

SPECIAL ADDED PROGRAM IN SEPTEMBER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3 AT NOON

Our season opens with a sneak peek into Vermont Stage Company's fall production, "Tribes," an award-winning comedy drama by Nina Raine, opening at Flynn Space Burlington on October 7. The play is about relationships and communication within a comically dysfunctional Jewish family, parents and three grown children, the youngest of whom, Billy, is deaf. Vermont Stage is Burlington's only year-round professional theater company.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

Shelagh Connor Shapiro, a local writer and radio personality, talks about her novel set in a small Vermont town, Shape of the Sky, and her radio interview show, Write the Book. Shelagh (pronounced Shayla) will sign books that will be available for purchase after the luncheon.

Please join us on the third Thursday of every month from October through May for an exciting new season of eclectic and informative programming!

Luncheons are free and open to the community; donations to help defray costs are welcome, $5.00 suggested.

Upcoming luncheon dates

YOUNG JUDAEA NEWS

We are once again starting a new school year and looking forward to the Jewish holidays. We wish you all L'Shanah Tova.

I know I repeat myself, but we are so lucky to have such a wonderful and strong Jewish Youth group here in Vermont, with participants coming from our many and diverse Jewish communities: OZ, Sinai, Beth Jacob, chavurah groups, and unaffiliated Jewish youth. Please bring your children and their Jewish friends to YJ activities so they can take part in this open, caring, fun, and welcoming young Jewish community. Young Judaea is a safe and fun place to come together to celebrate and explore being Jewish in Vermont.

We're pleased to announce that Sharon Behar is back and will be working with Frances Laskey to lead our Tsofim (grades 5th-7th grade) group. She and Frances have a lot of fun activities planned for the year, the first of which you can read below.

Sharon Behar

Sharon lives in South Burlington with her husband and 10-year-old daughter. She was a science teacher and environmental educator for 20 years before branching out into leadership and group development work with organizations. Sharon is a veteran YJ advisor, having previously led our Ofarim group for two years. She is looking forward to creating fun Jewish outdoor adventure events with the Tsofim this year.

Frances Lasday

Frances is currently a student at the University of Vermont getting her bachelor's degree in Environmental Studies with a concentration in Faith, Education, and the Environment. She loves exploring her two passions, environmental stewardship and Jewish education, in an effort to do her part in making the world a better place.

Frances grew up in Young Judaea and is excited to be engaging with the movement again, trying to give back even a fraction of what the movement gave to her. In her free time, Frances enjoys reading, knitting, and getting dirty.

Bios for Melanie Needle and Gail Issenberg, our Ofarim (2nd-4th grade) and Bogrim (8th-12th grade), advisors were in the July/August issue of The Voice and can be viewed on our Young Judaea website at <https://sites.google.com/site/youngjudaeavermont/ourclubleaders>.

UPCOMING EVENTS AND HAPPENINGS

Ofarim (grades 2 - 4)

Sunday, September 6, 11:00 am to 1:30 pm

Adams Farm, 986 Old Stage Road, Williston

Join us for apple picking and a hayride. We'll dip some apples in honey to get ready for a sweet year ahead, take a few home to have on Rosh Hashanah, and donate the remainder to the Burlington Food Shelf. Please bring a bagged vegetarian/dairy lunch and we'll picnic with friends in the apple orchard. RSVP to Melanie Needle, 578-3509 or mneedle@gmail.com.

Sunday, October 4, 9:30 am - 3:00 pm

New Leaf Organic Farm, 4818 Bristol Road, Bristol

Get your hands dirty at the Sukkot on the Farm Family Event. Wander in the woods, ride in horse-drawn buggies, gaze at the clouds, dance, eat and enjoy a community celebration of both abundance and the cycle of seasonal change! Please come as a family. Young Judaea advisors will be on hand and will be enjoying this wonderful event full of music, crafts, teachings, and community in the countryside of Addison County, just 35 minutes south of Burlington. There will be music, storytelling, meditation, on-the-farm harvest demonstrations, and artisan crafts. Centered on the sukkah, the traditional handcrafted harvest hut, the celebrations will explore the abundance of living within renewed tradition. (Coming from Hinesburg 116 take Silver St, name changes to Bristol Road in Bristol). See page 10 for more information.

Tsofim (grades 5 - 7)

Sunday, September 27, 12 noon

Mt. Mansfield

Get ready for our first fall outdoor adventure – with hiking boots, water, raingear and an extra jacket. We will hike part way up Mt. Mansfield (the Sunset Ridge Trail) to a great view and some yummy snacks, and stop at Cantilever rock on the way down. We plan on leaving Burlington at noon. Once we know who is coming we will arrange a meeting place. Contact Sharon Behar at 862-3830 or Sharon.behar@gmail.com for questions or to sign up.

Sunday, October 4, 9:30 am - 3:00 pm
Sukkot on the Farm Family Event (see page 14)

Bogrim (grades 8 - 12)
Wednesday, September 23

Join your friends during the Yizkor Service on Yom Kippur for a Teen Service break. We'll meet out in clearing behind OZ, to the right of the Shalom Shuk (by the sculpture and benches, if the weather is nice; in the upstairs classroom in case of rain) for a break from services with some time for enlightening conversation in a natural setting.

Sunday, October 4, 9:30 am - 3:00 pm

Please bring a vegetarian/dairy bag lunch and RSVP to Gail Issenberg, 985-4157 or isenberg748@gmail.com

We are looking forward to a wonderful year ahead with incredible advisors and amazing kids. Check out our website at youngjudaeavermont@googlepages.com to see some of our past events and keep abreast of what's coming up.

Jewish Book Sale

Sunday, October 25

11:00 am to 3:00 pm

Ohavi Zedek Synagogue

Sponsored by the OZ Arts & Culture Chavurah

Here's your chance to recycle Jewish-related books you no longer need or want and support Ohavi Zedek at the same time!

Please drop books off between September 25 and October 21 during Hebrew School hours only! (Sundays between 9:30 and 11:30 am or Wednesdays between 4:00 and 6:00 pm).

A sign indicating the drop-off site will be posted at the entrance by the parking lot. Please do not bring them to the office. If you have more than 30 books to donate, or need to bring them at another time, please contact me.

Books should be in good condition (like a book you'd want to buy) and on any Jewish-related topic: religion, culture, history, ethics. We also encourage the donation of children's books and fiction on Jewish themes (up to you to determine if it's a Jewish theme!)

Be sure to come on October 25 to browse and purchase books that interest you. Proceeds from the sale will benefit Ohavi Zedek.

If you're willing to help out on October 25, please contact me.

SHALOM SHUK HAPPENINGS

Thank you, thank you, to Lisa Adamczyk and the anonymous donor who beautified the outside of our barn with flowers this summer. And the flower pot was a gift from Gardener's Supply last summer. Didn't the blossoms give the Shuk a lovely look?

Recently Elizabeth Brody stopped me with, "I have to tell you something! The Shuk is so clean. I go to lots of places and yours is so clean. I mean it—it makes the place more inviting to shop there." Thank you, Sabina for your thorough weekly cleaning.

Another customer told us, "Your store is really the best. Believe me. And I should know—I go to all of them!" While she was speaking of our merchandise, the ambiance adds to the pleasure of shopping at the Shuk.

One donor told us, "Goodwill is more convenient for me, but I donate here because of all the good you do for the community. A friend told me about your giving—the word is getting out into the community."

While we, like so many other thrift shops, give vouchers through many organizations, we also contributed $6,000 last year to King Street and the Boys & Girls Club. Plus, we have free merchandise outside. Warm coats, boots, blankets, etc. may have a spot on them, but they will keep someone warm this winter. These "finds" help folks with their budget and they, too, are grateful.

Jeff Potash met a young man whose clothing had been stolen at the laundromat on North Winooski Avenue. He came to us with a voucher and left a very happy man, dressed in fine clothing and a big smile.

When I told one regular customer, "This shirt is you," he said, "This place is magical. I keep coming and getting all my clothes here. I know my taste now and you have it. I love this place."

Do keep your donations coming. When you do your fall cleaning or any time you have an item you do not need/want, please bring it to the Shalom Shuk. It will travel to another home and be cherished.
